Your supervisor will provide you with the appropriate safety equipment, instruct you on its correct use and give you “on the ground” guidance allowing you to safely complete your chosen activity. The instructions you receive from your supervisor should be understood and followed for your own safety and that of others around you. You, the client, are free to remove yourself from part or all of the activity at any time if you feel overly concerned. In the unlikely event of you feeling un-satisfied with any part of your activity please speak to your session supervisor at the earliest possible opportunity.
